The statistical data book presents main indicators characterizing level and dynamics of producer prices in the Republic of Belarus.

Intended for senior managerial staff, government officials, financial and economic departments of organizations, research community, higher education teaching staff, post-graduates and students, and other interested users.

Relative indicators are calculated on the basis of absolute numbers expressed in smaller units of measurement than those given in tables.

In several cases minor discrepancies between the total and the sum shall be assigned to data rounding.

FOREWORD

The data book presents statistical information reflecting the price processes in the Republic of Belarus in 2008-2013. The book comprises statistical data on the level and dynamics of prices and tariffs in the consumer market, in industry, construction, agriculture, freight transport and communications, characterizing the socio-economic situation in the Republic of Belarus. Selected financial indicators and international comparisons are provided.

Data on price indices are shown in percent.

In several cases the data for 2013 are provisional and are subject to revision in further issues.

BRIEF METHODOLOGICAL NOTES

The system of price indices compiled by the bodies of state statistics comprises price and tariff indices for goods and services in the consumer market, industrial and agricultural producer price indices, price indices in foreign trade, and freight and communication services tariff indices. The price indices are constructed on the basis of data of state statistical observations over prices of representative commodities / services.

Along with the prices recorded and indices computed for specific representative goods (services), average prices of commodity and / or services groups and changes in average prices are also calculated.

Consumer Price Index (CPI) describes changes over time in general price level for goods and services purchased by consumers for non-productive consumption. It is one of the key indicators characterizing the rate of inflation and is used to analyse and forecast price processes in the economy, resolve legal issues, and convert a number of variables of the system of national accounts at current prices into those at constant prices. The CPI is calculated on the basis of more than 425 particular goods and services selected to represent the structure of consumption expenditure in the country.

Prices / tariffs of goods / services are recorded in 31 towns selected to represent the socio-economic situation of the regions and the level of consumer market saturation with goods and services. Prices are collected from state and non-state trading outlets, urban markets, organisations providing paid services to the population, and individual entrepreneurs engaged in retail trade and services sector.

The pattern of actual consumption expenditure in the country is estimated on the basis of data on household spending on goods and services obtained from household sample survey.

The source data for index construction are data on prices recorded for specific goods and services, on the basis of which average comparable prices of both reference and previous periods are produced. A price is considered comparable if it is recorded at the same trading / services-providing entity for the same or similar in quality good / service.

On the basis of individual indices for towns included in the state statistical survey, and the area weights, aggregate price indices of individual goods (services) and commodity (service groups) are calculated for the region as a whole. As an area weight, the share of population resident in the surveyed area in the total population of the country is used.

Based on the aggregate price indices of goods and services for the region as a whole and the share of expenditure on purchasing those in consumption expenditure of the population, the total price indices for the groups of food, non-food goods and services, and also the consumer price index for the country as a whole are calculated.

Industrial producer price indices are produced on the basis of prices recorded at the reference organisations for representative commodities which are the most typical of the industry of the country and fully reflect its structure.

At present, the sample comprises 1500 industrial organisations. Prices are collected for more than 4900 particular product items. Recorded are actual for the current period producer prices (net of value-added tax and excise taxes) of industrial products shipped on domestic market.

Goods are regarded representative if they are typical of a specific kind of economic activity, make up the largest share in the total industrial output, and have been produced during a long period of time.

The indices calculated for representative goods are then applied using the successive aggregation method to the kinds of economic activity represented by the selected representative goods. As weights, data on the value of products shipped in the base period are used.

Price indices for building and assembly works are calculated by the Ministry of Architecture and Construction based on the price records for material resources and operation of machinery and equipment and tariff records of motor road and railway transportation and thermal energy. Prices of materials, products and structures manufactured in the country are recorded directly by manufacturers, and prices of imported material resources are recorded by construction organisations. Wage costs are determined in accordance with the resolutions of the Government of the Republic of Belarus.

Fixed capital investment price index describes changes in prices on material and technical resources used in investment activities on fixed capital investment. Price index in building is calculated by the Ministry of Architecture and Construction on the basis of composite price index of building and assembly works including price index of assembly and installation of technological equipment, composite price index of equipment and price index of other works and costs measured by a share of elements of fixed capital investment technological structure.

Freight tariff indices allow for the estimation of changes in freight transportation tariffs over the current period irrespective of changes in the structure of cargoes shipped by various characteristics, i.e. type and size of consignment, speed of delivery, distance to be covered by carriers, territory of transportation, type of rolling stock, utilization of freight carrying capacity, etc. For each mode of transport, tariff of the representative service is recorded. Shipping of one tonne of the most bulk cargo over a specified distance is taken as a representative service of freight transportation by different modes of transport. The state statistical survey covers 117 motor transport organisations, the state association "Belarusian Railways", the Belarusian State Concern on Oil and Chemistry, the open joint-stock company "Beltransgas", the private unitary enterprise "Zapad-Transnefteproduct", the republican transport unitary enterprise "Belarusian River Steamship Company", and the republican unitary enterprise "National Airlines "Belavia". Revenues of the particular mode of transport from freight transportation over the base period are used as weights.

Tariff indices of communication services provided to legal persons and individual entrepreneurs are calculated on the basis of communication services tariffs for selected representative services. The state statistical survey over the changes in communication services tariffs covers the republican unitary telecommunication enterprise "Beltelecom", the republican unitary enterprise "Belpochta", the republican unitary enterprise "Belarusian Radio-Television Broadcasting Centre", the foreign privately-owned service-providing enterprise "Velcom", and the joint limited liability company "Mobile TeleSystems". Revenues from general-use communication services by types of communication are used as weights for the computation of tariff index of communication services.

Producer price indices of agricultural production (for products sold by agricultural and other organisations) are derived by groups of homogeneous products. Price indices reflect the value changes of sold products (services) resulting from associated price changes in the reference period as compared with the base period, and are constructed based on the volume of products (services) sold in the reference period along with the selling prices of both the reference and the base periods. Beginning with 2010, data are provided based on agricultural producer price index.

Agricultural producer price index reflects the dynamics of prices on agricultural products produced by the organisations of the country, sold in the domestic market and calculated excluding VAT, shipping costs, handling charges, but including quality allowance and bonus.

Sample of core agricultural organisations includes main producers of agricultural production with substantial share in the volume of agricultural production sold and definite speciality.

At present, the sample includes around 800 organisations. State sample statistical observation on agricultural producer prices covers more than 4000 kinds of specific products.

Agricultural producer composite price index is calculated by kinds of economic activity as well as particularly by types (subtypes) of agricultural production. Agricultural producer composite price index is computed by regions and at the level of the country.

To exclude the effect of structural shifts of production and sales of agricultural production caused by biological and climatic factors, the base period is counted as an average volume of products sold for three years previous to reference period.
